Memory's book

I: In today's interview a famous writer Jane Baker, who has returned to her home after ^{living in another country} several years living abroad, will answer five questions about her future book.

I: Jane, we appreciate that you found time in your schedule to visit this interview. I believe that you are only getting used to all new things in our town, aren't you?

Sp. Gr. JB: Yes, it was unbelievable when I had flown to hometown. Most of stores and buildings in the center of town are redecorated, roads are fixed. I am shocked and amazed. However, the park of my childhood is the same as in the past.

Gr I: Is this park important place for you?

JB: Yes, it was the area for all plays and adventures in my childhood. I remember many stories about it which will be used to write my future book.

I: Will you write only about one place in our hometown?

JB: Now I am planning to write about this park, the pond near my house and the primary school. The most significant memories from my childhood were taking place there.

I: Many writers write about interesting facts of their towns. Will you do it?

JB: Of course! I asked residents of town about history of it and stories from their lives. I can share with you one historical fact. Our town is the motherland of lollipop.

I: I didn't know about it. And the last question. Who is your reader?

JB: My reader is anybody who loves funny stories and gripping adventures.

Gr. I: Thank you for this short but exciting interview. I really look forward for our next meeting.
