ANSWER SHEET 09-22

A Famous Writer is Finally Back to her Hometown

I - Today, I will be interviewing Jane Baker - a famous writer who was born in our town. Welcome, Jane.

JB - Thank you. I'm glad to be here today.

I - The return to the hometown must've been quite emotional.

① Have you already stumbled upon any changes here? What impressions have they left?

JB - Yes, I have. In fact, there's a lot of them. The most important to me is the fact that two of my favourite stores were closed down in the last years. I was upset as I loved going to them as a kid. But that's just how the life is.

I - That is rather sad yet mature of you. However, that could have given you ideas as to a writer. Please tell us: has the visit affected your ideas for the work? Is there any new book in progress?

JB - Actually, yes, there is. And the changes did inspire me, as I wanted to dedicate the book to the hometown and my memories of it. I also wanted to tell about less known things about it.

I - like which ones?

JB - Well, it seems that few people know about the abandoned stage near the river that had often appeared in media but ~~was~~ suddenly gone at some point.

I - Huh, I didn't know too. Looks like the book will be full of discoveries for locals like me. Unfortunately, this is the end of our interview. Thank you for your answers, Jane.

JB - You are welcome.
