ANSWER SHEET 10-04

About the "Mysteries of Tuefort"

SP

I: 'Good afternoon, Mrs Baker. How are you feeling today?'

JB: 'Ah, I'm feeling splendid, thank you. It's a pleasure to be here.'

I: 'I'm glad you feel that way. I must ask, how was it like living in Italy all those years?'

JB: 'It was quite nice actually. I had to get used to the climate and improve my knowledge of Italian, but, overall, my experience in Italy was great. Nowhere near as great as finally returning to my hometown, though!'

I: 'I can understand that. Tell us, have you noticed any major changes here in Tuefort?'

gr

JB: 'It's the same good old town of my childhood, I believe. However, I can't help but notice that some buildings have been renovated during the time of my absence. That's a good thing, without a doubt.'

prca

I: 'I see... I've also heard that you are currently writing a book called "Mysteries of Tuefort". Would you mind telling us something about it?'

gr

JB: 'Oh, I think the title explains ^{the story} quite well, actually. Twin brothers, Jeremy and Paul, decide to learn as much as they can about their "tranquil and humble" hometown.'

gr

I: 'Oh, really? Could you give us a glimpse ^{on} of the "mysteries" that Jeremy and Paul uncover?'

JB: 'I'm not going to say ^{too much} as it would spoil the surprise. But in the ^{nine} ~~eighteenth~~ century ~~before~~ a certain famous person lived here in Tuefort.'

I: 'Wow, that ~~is~~ is interesting! How soon is the book going to be published?'

JB: 'I'm not entirely sure, since I haven't finished writing it yet. But I believe it will ^{have been} released ~~by the time~~ until the end of autumn.'

I: 'I'm sure many of our readers will be waiting for that. Thank you very much for answering the questions, Mrs Baker.'
